LAST DAY
LAST DAY.

THE LAST DAY before a GREAT EVENT is always an IMPORTANT TIME. If a man is going to be HANGED, the day before the NOOSE is brought out is naturally of great moment to THE HANGEE. Likewise, if a man is about to BE MARRIED, the last day of LIBERTY—the day before THE KNOT is fastened—is one of extreme importance to THE MAN. If a man bids FAREWELL TO EARTH, whether he likes it or not, HE has NO OPTION. The law has TAKEN HIM IN HAND, and he has to go. In the other case matters are somewhat different, though the TWO CONDITIONS have been man's OWN CHOICE. He has faith in the future, which may or may NOT be SHATTERED. His last day of BACHELORDOM is a MERRY ONE, because he is, in his own mind, on the eve of a BETTER life, a more COMPLETE EXISTENCE, in which he is not only going to make HIMSELF, AND SOMEONE else JOYFUL, but is also to

DO THE STATE SOME SERVICE.

THE LAST DAY
THE LAST DAY
BEFORE XMAS DAY
BEFORE XMAS DAY

is NOT TO BE LIGHTLY DISPOSED OF. Even by the division who THINK OF THINGS in good time, something may be FORGOTTEN, and a clear review of the attention should be made ; while by those who PUT OFF EVERYTHING till the LAST MOMENT, and their name is LEGION.

THE LAST DAY
BEFORE XMAS DAY

should be a BUSY TIME. WHICHEVER CROWD you belong to, you have a CLEAR DUTY to perform. You have to visit

ANTHONY HOWDERN'S
at BOTH ENDS of THE BUSINESS STICK. You have to go to
THE EXHIBITION BUILDING for a FIRST, or a LAST VIEW, as the case may be, of
THE FINEST SHOW OF

TOYS AND XMAS CARDS
Australia has EVER SEEN. You have to go there, we say, and, ACCORDING to your MEANS, spend your XMAS MONEY. Then

DINNA FORGET THE HAYMARKET.
It's your OLD LOVE, don't you know! You're been FLIRTING a while with the EXHIBITION BUILDING, but the HAYMARKET is not JEALOUS, and rather

LIKE THE FUN, both it will be HAYMARKET (ONLY) again, and then if you get FLYING ABOUT anywhere else after THIS AND THAT, your OLD SWEETHEART HAYMARKET (ONLY) will have something to say.

DINNA FORGET THE HAYMARKET ON XMAS EVE.

There's the PRETTIEST show, and the GRANDDAD show. There is room FOR EVERYBODY and ENOUGH FOR ALL. There are BATTALIONS UPON BATTALIONS OF XMAS GOODS

of every KIND and SORT under the sun. There are things to EAT and DRINK, and things to GIVE AWAY.
There is OLD FATHER XMAS in every corner, and you meet SANTA CLAUS every step you take.

The FIRST OLD BOY shakes hands with you over the JEWELLERY CASE, and the second XMAS IDENTITY sings out "JOLLY COMPANIONS EVERYONE" as you are buying CURRANTS and PLUMS.

SANTA CLAUS IS EVERYWHERE, and so is
FATHER CHRISTMAS.

They creep out FROM BEHIND the LOVELY shop-

PERFUMERY; they are over younger recommending CRICKET BATS and BALLS; they are off to the REFRIGERATOR ROOMS to get a CUP OF TEA; they deduce in and out among the ELECTROPLATE and KNIVES and FORKS; while the GOOD BOOKS, especially PICTURE BOOKS for children, both of them have a STRONG AFFECTION. FOLLOW THEM ROUND, and spend your XMAS MONEY like "TRUE AUSTRALIANS."

DECLARATION OF THE GOVERN.

EXPLANATION OF THE GOVERNMENT POLICY.

VISIT TO BEALE AND CO'S FACTORY.

Messrs. Beale and Co., Limited, have built a new factory for the manufacture of pianos and sewing machines in Trafalgar-street, Annandale, and yesterday at their invitation a large company of leading lower later with pianos, and the project flourished. The unit as shown yesterday a fine brick building with many outbuildings, extending over two acres and employing 150 persons. The cost of building and giving employment to 150 persons, and the wages paid to them, for the year 1940, was $40,000, was required. The unit is a highly important development in the industrial history of the country, and those who witnessed the various processes of the manufacture of pianos and sewing machines yesterday were delighted with what they saw. The key board and the frame which are imported from the United States, and the case and the whole of the woodwork, are made in the factory. So with the sewing machines, all are made in the factory with the exception of some of the smaller parts, which are purchased. There is a complete factory shop, veneering, French-polishing, and repairing, steel-painting, and a host of other secondary industries kept going. The factory was turned out 1000 pairs and 6000 sewing machines daily. It was the important company moved yesterday, and after a pleasant inspection of all that could be seen there was a gathering in the hall. De Groot's violin and orchestra had been engaged for the occasion, and supplied the music incidentally to the sale. The Premier of Australia (Mr. Barton), the Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Williams), the Minister for Education (Mr. Fisher), the Hon. Mr. Kelly, the State Treasurer (Mr. Waddell), the State Minister for Works (Mr. O'Sullivan), the State Minister for Agriculture (Mr. McEwen), the Hon. Mr. Judge Finlayson, Dean O'Hagan, the Rev. Mrs. Campbell, the Rev. William Cameron, the chairmen of the Chamber of Commerce (Mr. J. H. McEwen) and of the Chamber of Manufacturers (Mr. J. F. Wright), Mr. A. Chapman, M.P., Mr. Russell, M.P., Mr. Kelso King, Premier and Mr. Taylor, were present.

THE SPEECHES.

Cardinal Moran proposed the toast of the Commonwealth Ministers. He said it was the first Christmas that this fair United Australia had seen, and he believed he expressed the sentiments of every resident of United Australia when he said that we must have peace, good will, brotherly love, enlightenment and prosperity and peace that would be the everlasting heritage of the Commonwealth. It seemed only a day ago that Australia came to life, and yet at the present time the most important political events that the southern hemisphere had witnessed were the result of the destinies of Australia at the present day were in the hands of such did not think they would find another such set-up which devoured to the true interests of Australia, and which marked their course. It would be difficult to find another set of men whom he would like to see lead the helm of the Commonwealth. He would have liked the resources, with a people endowed with such energy as they had, and with the traditions of the past, could look forward to a bright day for Australia and might be ever in the cause of justice, truth, progress, and enlightenment. He spoke in praise of the day they would find that at no distant time the beneficent action of the Commonwealth Parliament would be one of the first acts of the Parliament would be to $200 million to the capital of Australia. Personally he would like to see the day when the individual views were they were always willing to surrender them for the common good.

SPERCH BY MR. BAUNTON.

MR. BAUNTON, in the course of his address, said: I cannot help thinking that the sounds which have recently entered my ears are somewhat of a contradiction to a certain portion of the press. (Hear, hear.) The difficulty of those who think with the Government of the Commonwealth on many questions is that in the chief city, so far as population or early rising is concerned, the morning papers are the basis of their party in the morning paper. (Hear, hear, and laughter.) But there is a further difficulty—those who put forward the view of that party in the present seat of Parliament are not able to read those views in the Hydney morning papers themselves. If they were, they would find that the views which can be brought into some communion with each other, and that there is a possibility of hearing something which is not marked by that kind of accewhich drops its voice to a whisper when it fears that anybody will hear. I have to apologise for the fact that I have not been able to attend the Ministry that has a contention to attend to funds it very difficult to keep any social engagements. Our Minister whom, owing to recent developments, I am aware the company would be very glad to meet, is at present in the United States and I am sure the Ministers are tied to their offices. As your Excellence has proposed the health of the first Government of the Republic, I have the pleasure to announce the general scheme of the Commonwealth, incorporating its Parliament. There is a good deal to be said of the fact that the Government has been able to do what you have heard, because you are in the position of having your gooseberry pie daily made of apples. I am sure that you will find that the Government work less than seven months. It began its active operations on May 21, and adjourned on December 15, and was thus a little over six and a half months in existence. I am sure that you will find that the fact, but duties which are to be resumed before the 14 Acts not one of which could have been passed without federation by any State. If there is any doubt as to the fact that the Bill has been passed in that fact, Uniform legislation on subjects it has spoken of would, however, be impossible without the aid of the States. The Bill has dealt with, and in dealing with, the States have had evidence of a recognition of the largeness and importance of itself, and of the proper way in which the States should be treated. The Bill has been passed by the Commonwealth Government, the Department of Customs and of Defense, and the Postal and Telegraph. The first two have been already regulated by statute.

GENERAL HUTTON AND DEFENCES.

As to the third, the Defense Bill has been read the second time; but before the discussion can be resumed the Hon. member will have to deal with the question of the Commonwealth's gentleman whose selection has, I think, been approved from end to end of the [illegible]

and not touch on, except that I have mentioned the necessity of increasing the regulation of the Public Service of the country.

ARTISANS VERSUS PUBLIC SERVICE.

We had a vast number of speakers for the employment in the Public Service, and my best recollections, now formed on viewing an industry such as the manufacture of shoes, of the thousands of men who undertake under a social policy, of which we have not all the public of America, selling over on every trying to get into the Public Service of the Commonwealth, and the thousands of men who fully that it is in carrying out private enterprises that the mainlines and self-reliance of a community are made, and the public service of the country is such as these the more the public army of society to the Civil Service will dwindle. (Loud applause.)

TONE OF PARLIAMENTARY DEBATE.

There was a very strong word also in defence of the tone of debate in the House of Commons. In the discussion varied interests, never continued to one side

On that hand there has been nothing more in the way of personally done is known. We have had one or more all night sittings, and I would like to say that some was provoked by me. I took every reasonable

...the course to prevent them. The debate on our legislative questions have been characterized by a really marvellous consideration and courtesy for the feelings of others, and in no case has any member been so much as to say a word which might be construed as an insult to any other member. There were a few who were not so much as to say a word which might be construed as an insult to any other member. There were a few who were not so much as to say a word which might be construed as an insult to any other member.
